Five Love Languages

This year our Wellness Team has worked with some of the classes to talk about our different “Love Languages” (Gary Chapman). We discovered that people speak different love languages and that knowing each others’ Love Language can help us to better care for ourselves and each other.

The test is easy to do online, you can complete the test as a family, as a couple, as siblings and then talk about how your Love Language can impact how you communicate and care for one another.

Click or copy the link below and take the Love Language test and start the conversation in your home! <https://www.5lovelanguages.com/>

Coats for Kids Campaign (Confluence Campus Library) October 29-December 20, 2018

The high school library in Rocky Mountain House is heading a campaign to supply warm winter outerwear to as many children in need as possible, this winter.

Please drop off laundered snowsuits, coats, mittens, ski pants, and scarves, in gently used condition, to any school in Rocky Mountain House. We will accept clothing for young children, right up to include high school students.

Thank you for your gift to those less fortunate.
